

Town and County.

—Mrs. W. R. Loyill is still a very sick lady, but is thought to be, in most respects, slightly better.

—If you have any inclination to haul us a load of wood, right along now would be a good time to send it in.

—Dr. J. C. Farthing will be on Beaver Dams on Oct. 10th, 11th, 12th, and 13th prepared to do all kinds of dental work.

—Register of Deeds Gragg is having his pretty residence repainted, and making some other valuable improvements on his property.

—The first train arrived at Shulls Mills on last Friday, and now the extension of the road on to Boone is being very much discussed.

—Dr. O. L. Moore, of Lenoir, will be at the Watauga Inn at Blowing Rock on Oct. 5th, 6th and 7th, prepared to do all kinds of Dental work.

—In spite of the very bleak weather on Saturday, quite a goodly number attended the Masonic picnic in Boone, the gross receipts for the orphanage being $50.50.

—Mr. N. C. Parsons, the junior member of the firm of J. S. Brown & Co., at West Riverside, was in to see us last week and took some advertising space in these columns. Look up their ad.

—Hon. Clyde A. Howie, of Shelby, one of the "silver-tongued" Democratic orators of the State, will speak in Boone on Thursday Oct. 26, 1916. Official notice by Chairman Shipley next week.

—David P. Wyke, of Foscoe, was in town Monday, and, for reasons known to himself, called off his male indefinitely, that has been advertised for two weeks. The public will take notice.

—Dr. M. I. Hartley, of Neva, Tenn., came over Sunday night to visit his aged mother, Mrs. Rachel Hartley, who has been seriously ill for some days, leaving for his home Monday afternoon.

—Mr. B. A. Foster and family are moving this week to their recently purchased farm on Meat Camp, (the late Jont Brown place), having sold their pretty little home at Adams.

—Little Virginia Council still languishes on a bed of sickness, but, there is nothing alarming about her symptoms. Without some complication, that is not now expected, arises, the much-loved child will soon be up again.

—Dick Hodges has returned from his visit east of the Ridge and here is his matrimonial experience on the way: I found one who said she was looking for a man old enough to take care of her, and willing to support Mr. Wilson for the presidency. Dick has the age on him all right, but his Hughes proclivities fixed him, and there he is again!

—The frosts on Sunday and Monday were almost like light snows, and some of the farmers here the first of the week, were of the opinion that the fruit, in some sections of the county, was slightly damaged, and the crop is being gathered as rapidly as possible. There was nothing else much for the heavy frosts and light freeze.

—The pastor asks us to say that there will be services held in the Episcopal church in Boone at 7:30 next Sunday afternoon.

—The Avery County Fair is on in full swing just now, and it may be reasonably expected that it will be a great success, as that plucky little county never does things by halves.

—Mesdames M. P. Critcher and David R. Shearer, returned Saturday after a two week's delightful visit to relatives and friends at Butler and other points in East Tennessee.

—Mrs. Myra Pulliam and daughter, Miss Mary Leslie, of Lompoc, California, who have been spending some time with relatives here, left last Saturday morning for Lenoir, leaving that point for their far western home on Monday. Their stay here was much enjoyed by their hosts of friends, all of whom wish for them a safe and pleasant trip across the continent.

—Congressman R. L. Doughton has filled his list of appointments in Watauga, and at every place, save one, the crowds to hear him were very satisfactory, and the greatest enthusiasm for the election of the democrats prevailed. He is on a speech-making tour in Caldwell county this week. He is a fair, unbiased, logical speaker, always dealing in facts instead of throwing mud at those who oppose him, and all fair-minded men enjoy hearing him. He hopes to join the county candidates at one or more of their appointments a little later on, but this is not definitely settled upon yet.

—As the result of a third stroke of paralysis, Mrs. Panthia Phillips, on Route 1 passed to her reward on Tuesday night. Mrs. Phillips was a daughter of Mr. A. H. Hix, at whose home she died, having been a widow for a number of years. Through all of life's sorrows, she remained the same sweet-spirited, christian lady, and her removal to a more genial clime, should not be bemoaned by loved one any more than possible, for it is as natural to die as it is to born, being ready for the great change the matter of greatest importance. The bereaved ones, especially the bright children and aged father have our unstinted sympathy.

Training School Items.

An eight room cottage, "Lake View," is being erected near Newland Hall to be used as living rooms for the young men, the present available buildings being full.

The boys of each class in the Training School have a work period every day. As a result of their efforts the young ladies have nice basket ball, tennis and croquet grounds. The young men also have a fine basket ball ground and they are now working on a base ball diamond near Newland Hall. The boys will be playing on it, possibly, by the time this letter is in print.

The Arts and Crafts building at the Training School for the young men has the foundation laid and is to be finished very soon. A beautiful lake is in direct contact with it.

Miss Mary H. Large, of the Southern Industrial Association, is to be here occasionally hereafter to make talks on matters pertaining to carpet, rug and handy work at the Training School.

The anniversary of the four Literary Societies was celebrated on Monday evening by a debate between the Societies—one from each society. The query was Resolved, that Co-education should be abolished in the high schools of North Carolina. The affirmative was represented by Miss Wilhelmina Shull and Gates Linney, and the negative by Miss Edith Farmer and Frank Loopier. The young people acquitted themselves well, and the occasion was an enjoyable one.
